Contents of Volume 25 2002

Volume 25, No. 1, 2002

Richard M. Zaner, Making Music Together While Growing Older: Further Reflections on Intersubjectivity 1–18

Thomas Luckman, Moral Communication in Modern Societies 19–32

Fred Kersten, A Stroll with Alfred Schutz 33–53

Elizabeth Suzanne Kassab, Phenomenologies of Culture and Ethics: Ernst Cassirer, Alfred Schutz and the Tasks of a Philosophy of Culture 55–88

Review Symposium

John J. Drummond, Paradox or Contradiction? 89–102

Dan Zahavi, Transcendental Subjectivity and Metaphysics 103–116

David Carr, Response to John Drummond and Dan Zahavi on The Paradox of Subjectivity: The Self in the Transcendental Tradition 117–123

Volume 25, No. 2, 2002

Neve Gordon, On Visibility and Power: An Arendtian Corrective of Foucault 125–145

Martin Beck Matuštik, Existential Social Theory After the Post-structuralist and Communication Turns 147–164

Talia Welsh, The Retentional and the Repressed: Does Freud's Concept of the Unconscious Threaten Husserlian Phenomenology? 165–183

Corey Anton, Discourse as Care: A Phenomenological Consideration of Spatiality and Temporality 185–205

Nathan Miczo, Hobbes, Rousseau, and the "Gift" in Interpersonal Relationships 207–231

Book Reviews

Katharine Young, Presence in the Flesh (Maxine Sheets-Johnstone) 233–239

David Bogen, Order Without Rules: Critical Theory and the Logic of Conversation (James J. Chriss) 241–249

P.J. Huntington, Ecstatic Subjects, Utopia, and Recognition: Kristeva, Heidegger, Irigaray (Mechthild Nagel) 251–256

M.G. Flaherty, A Watched Pot: How We Experience Time (Majia Holmer Nadesan) 257–265

Volume 25, No. 3, 2002
Symposium: The Enlightenment

Ramsey Eric Ramsey, Vestiges Found 267–268

Andrew Cutrofello, Is the Human Race Constantly Progressing? Reflections on September 11 269–279

Emmanuel C. Eze, Answering the Question, "What Remains of Enlightenment?" 281–288

Matthias Fritsch, The Enlightenment Promise and its Remains: Derrida and Benjamin on the Classless Society 289–296

Hwa Yol Jung, Enlightenment and the Question of the Other: A Postmodern Audition 297–306

Marc J. Lafountain, Dare! 307–309

Jeffrey L. Powell, An Enlightened Madness 311–316

Benjamin S. Pryor, Foucault's Enlightened Reaction 317–321

Kory P. Schaff, Foucault and the Critical Tradition 323–332

Articles

Wolff-Michael Roth & Daniel V. Lawless, How does the Body get into the Mind? 333–358

Peter Weeks, Performative Error-Correction in Music: A Problem for Ethnomethodological Description 359–385

Review Symposium

Johanna Meehan, Thoughts on William Rehg's Insight and Solidarity 387–396

Simone Chambers, Seeking Intersubjective Insight: Comments on William Rehg's Insight and Solidarity 397–405

William Rehg, The Critical Potential of Discourse Ethics: Reply to Meehan and Chambers 407–412

Volume 25, No. 4, 2002
25th Anniversary Issue

Frances Chaput Waksler, On Editing and Human Studies 413–415

George Psathas, The Path to Human Studies 417–424

Lenore Langsdorf, Advancing the Dialogue: An Editor's Reflections 425–427

Hwa Yol Jung, Human Studies and Philosophy 429–433

Maxine Sheets-Johnstone, A Random Stroll 435–440

Stephen Turner, The World Made by Human Studies 441–445

Fred Kersten, On the "Human" of Human Studies 447–449

Maureen Connolly and Tom Craig, Stressed Embodiment: Doing Phenomenology in the Wild 451–462

Richard Zaner, Accidents and Nostalgia: A Coda 463–465

David Allan Rehorick, I/Human Studies 467–471

Fred Dallmayr, Clock-Time or Lived Time? Twenty-five Years of Human Studies 473–475

Hisashi Nasu, Human Studies, for a Japanese Sociologist: A Personal Memory 477–484

Michael Lynch, Ethnomethodology's Unofficial Journal 485–494

Tim J. Berard, Moving Forward by Looking Back: Revisiting Melvin Pollner's "Constitutive and Mundane Versions of Labeling Theory 495–498

Valerie Malhotra Bentz, From Playing Child to Aging Mentor: The Role of Human Studies in my Development as a Scholar 499–506

Kurt H. Wolff, Beginning, Continuation, and Future 507–508

James L. Heap, Plus Ça Change, Plus C'est la Même Chose: Advancing the Dialogue 509–512

Cumulative Index 1978–2002 (Volumes 1–25) 513–535

Instructions for Authors 537–542

Index of Authors 543

Contents of Volume 25-4 545–548